If so, my analysis amounts to a rule in search of actual usage--a prescription rather than a description. In any event, the impressive rise of "free of" against "free from" over the past 100 years

Discover our durable energy storage containers designed for high capacity and safety. Ideal for renewable energy systems, industrial power backup, and portable energy needs.

"Free" and "on the house" both mean that you don't have to pay, but the inferred meaning is slightly different. If something is "free" it is without charge. For example, you might

A friend claims that the phrase for free is incorrect. Should we only say at no cost instead?

"Free" absolutely means "free from any sorts constraints or controls. The context determines its different denotations, if any, as in "free press", "free speech", "free stuff" etc.

Flexible mobile energy storage systems for remote sites and EV charging. Get sustainable, silent, and portable power solutions with Pulsar Industries.

Similarly, "free education" is funded by the state (which is ultimately financed by taxpayers) and taught in state-run schools called state schools whereas schools that charge tuition

I don't think there's any difference in meaning, although "free of charges" is much less common than "free of charge". Regarding your second question about context: given that English
